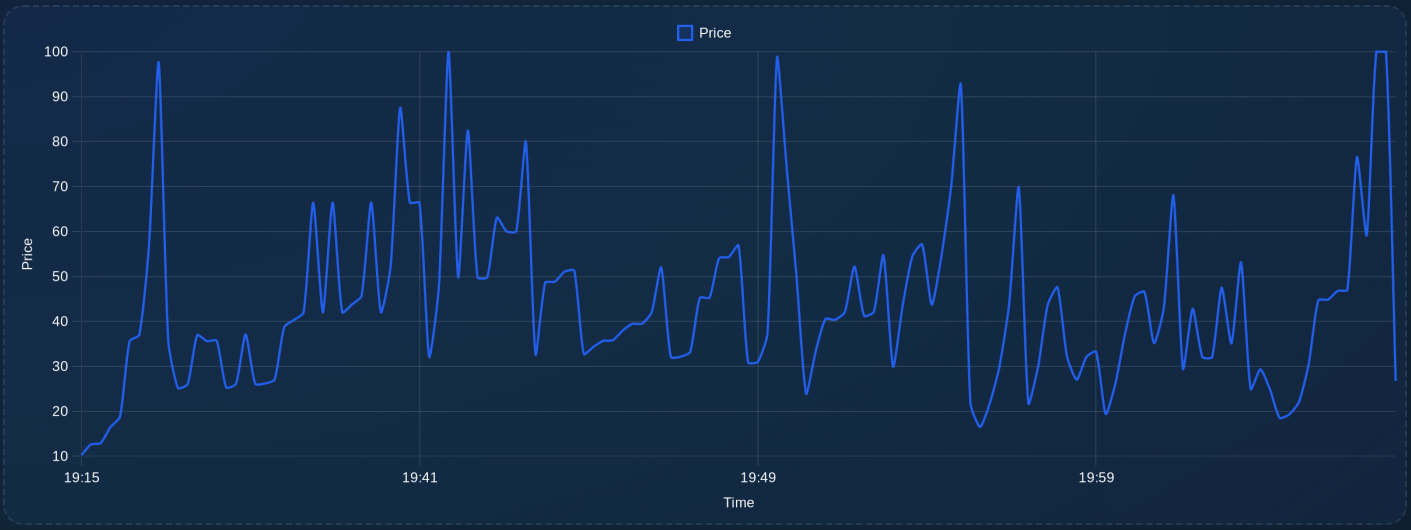
Gropad

PitchTank Founder Report

PITCH SUMMARY

Gropad is an already existing mobile app for students that hosts student businesses, events and a marketplace for students to find anything in their school. The app is steadily growing in Carleton university and is on track to safely use our data to build a human search engine that students can also use to find anyone for any purpose in their school (course mates, friends, dating, or other major or minor interest at that will). We are building an algorithm that can store user inquiries from students on a database and use AI to find a suitable person immediately or at a future time.

PRICE HISTORY



FEEDBACK HIGHLIGHTS

The feedback for Gropad indicates a generally positive reception, with multiple investors highlighting the strong market fit and potential of the idea. However, there are concerns regarding the app's clarity and the need for more features. Investors appreciate the pitch's energy and presentation style, but some have pointed out ambiguities in the app's functionality. Overall, while the concept resonates well, there is a clear call for refinement in both the product and its presentation to enhance investor confidence.

How do you store data? What’s the cost? What market research is being done to validate product?

(Shane Issler)

Why included: This feedback addresses critical operational questions that need clarity for investor confidence.

Love the minimalist presentation, quality in app videos (remove audio).

(Mike Ogilvie)

Why included: This note provides actionable advice on improving the presentation and user experience.

Great job at selling yourself but the app is ambiguous.

(Michael Boucouvalas)

Why included: This highlights the need for clearer communication of the app's features.

Interesting idea to pitch for universities as clients.

(Abhinav)

Why included: This suggests a specific target market that could enhance the business strategy.

Duh winning.

(Jesse collins)

Why included: While informal, this note reflects strong investor enthusiasm that can be leveraged.

Buy.

(Abhinav)

Why included: A direct investment interest indicates confidence in the startup's potential.
